INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION

Bachelors of Computer Information Systems at University of Fraser Valley, CANADA

The University of the Fraser Valley (UFV), (formerly known as University College of the Fraser Valley and Fraser Valley College) is a Canadian public university with campuses in Abbotsford, Chilliwack, Mission and Hope, British Columbia.

In the 2010 The Globe and Mail Canadian University Report, UFV earned the most "A Range" grades of any post-secondary institution in British Columbia, receiving A grades in quality of education, student-faculty interaction, and ease of registration.

Bachelor of Computer Information Systems (BCIS)

Program can help you gain the analytical, problem-solving, and technical skills required to become a manager in the IT industry. On the way to completing your bachelor's degree, you can earn a certificate and diploma in Computer Information Systems, enhancing your employment opportunities even before you graduate. Consider taking advantage of UFV's optional paid co-op work placements to gain work experience, develop contacts, and find the type of IT job that's your best fit.

Housing

Residence at UFV means small communities of primarily first-year students living, working, studying, and socialising together. It's an exciting way to get involved at the university as you help shape your community. Feel supported as you develop skills, gain information, and access many of the resources on the UFV campus. UFV Residence also has information about off-campus housing.
